

DIVERSITY, EQUALITY AND INCLUSION

Reading plays an important part of The Greville curriculum. We ensure that the texts that we study in English represent the diverse make-up of our community. We know that it is important for children to understand that we are all unique in our looks, personalities, family-situations and backgrounds and that these differences are to be celebrated.

Below is just a selection of the books that we study as part of our English curriculum or are available in our school or class libraries for our children to explore and enjoy.

As part of the school's diversity curriculum, children have been learning about Black History this month. The School Council was also keen to support 'Show Racism the Red Card' charity. On 18th October, all staff and children wore something red and children learnt more about the importance of anti-racism and acting as kind and respectful individuals.
